

AmeriCorps State Programs in Montana

Montana Conservation Corps invites you to picture yourself building a section of the Continental Divide Trail, or planting trees in a national park. Imagine that you are constructing a house for a low income family. Your home is a tent for much of the time, with meals shared around camp with fellow crew members. The greatest rewards—and challenges—come from learning how to work as a team with people different from you. Give back to Montana's communities and natural lands and make a difference here. You'll take away a lifetime of memories, career skills, lasting friendships, and a new appreciation for your abilities. Learn more at www.mtcorps.org.

The mission of Montana Campus Corps is to actively engage college students in meeting community-identified needs through meaningful service. Each year, this AmeriCorps program places students from MTCC member institutions with community agencies, non-profit organizations, schools, and healthcare facilities to address Montana's most challenging problems. Campus Corps members serve in the fields of education, human services, public health and safety, the environment, and homeland security, and are helping to improve our state while gaining valuable connections and skills, and insight into communities and careers in the common good. Justice for Montanans members work to empower low to moderate income Montanans to advocate for their legal rights, increasing access to justice for Montana's poor. Established by the Montana Legal Services Association, in partnership with the Self-Help Program of the Montana Supreme Court Office of the Court Administrator and the Montana Attorney General Office of Consumer Protection & Victim Services, the project places 13 members throughout Montana that help provide and expand intake, legal information and referral services for Montana's low income residents seeking legal assistance. Learn more at www.justiceformontanans.org.

The Montana Energy Corps AmeriCorps project is a project of the National Center for Appropriate Technology (NCAT) that was created to address unmet community energy needs by promoting sustainable energy consumption and education, fostering community sustainability and helping to mitigate the effects of global climate change. Energy Corps members are placed in host organizations in communities throughout the state of Montana to implement solutions for sustainable energy consumption. Learn more at www.energycorps.org.
